U.S. judge OKs sale of Brown household items

By BECKY BARNES, EDITOR

U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Alan C. Stout this week ordered the sale of personal property from the Paintsville home of Kay Brown.

Brown, who filed for bankruptcy in January 2012, has been named in criminal indictments in three counties. Her legal issues have spread from several county courthouses to the U.S. District Court and back to the county courthouses.

Documents were filed Monday in U.S. District Court approving the private sale of personal property from Kay Brown's former Paintsville home.

Approved were the sale of furnishings to Dr. Loey Kousa, who also purchased the Robin Hill Road home from Brown. Kousa paid $16,400 for selected furnishings.

Larry Music of Salyersville bought $2,000 worth of household items.

The remaining items in the house were purchased for $6,100 by Paul Brown of Hager Hill, who is the guardian for James Brown who is listed as the largest creditor for the estate in bankruptcy.

Kay Brown was ordered to turn over property of the estate and to provide an accounting by Jan. 21. The order was for property that had a purchase price over $500, which Kay Brown and/or Jim Brown had purchased since January 2008.

The Browns were married in February 2008. In December 2008, Jim Brown, former Cynthiana mayor and businessman, suffered a stroke that rendered him unable to care for his affairs.

Since that time, his wife has been accused of having Jim's real estate holdings deeded to herself and cashing in certificates of deposit that were in Jim's name, despite a prenuptial

Soldier's dogs go AWOL from sitter

By BEN HYATT, NEWS WRITER

Two black labs go absent without official leave.

While Captain Adam Evans of the 149th Vertical Construction Company is away in Afghanistan, Harrison County Assistant Animal Control Officer Paul Colson is in search of Evans' pooches.

According to Colson, Evans released his mother lab and pup into the care of Colson while he was away on active duty in Afghanistan.

"Capt. Evans told me that his wife was unable to take care of the family and all the animals in his absence," explained Colson. "So I offered to watch them for him while he was away."

Colson said the day before Evans deployed, the soldier came to the shelter for one final visit to his lab mother and pup.

"They had just come out to say bye to the two labs," said Colson, who added that the two dogs were spayed last week.

According to Colson, Evans

"I went home, which is where I am keeping the dogs, and I noticed that they had broken through the pens where I had them," explained Colson. "I must have searched nearly half the night for those two dogs."

Colson said the mother lab, black in color, and the young pup, also black, are still unaccounted for at this time.

The last location of the two animals was somewhere around Shaw Lane and the Shadynook area. The direction they were heading is unknown.

"I hope we find these dogs soon," said Colson. "It would be hard to explain to a returning soldier that I have lost his animals."

Colson said the mother lab was wearing a red collar and the pup, approximately seven months old, was wearing a blue collar.

Anyone with information about the animals should contact Colson at 588-5727 or at the shelter at 234-7138.

City's water treatment plant gets national kudos from EPA

By BECKY BARNES, EDITOR

Cynthiana's Municipal Water Works Department was one of three Kentucky water systems to receive national recognition.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) announced that Cynthiana's

Water Treatment was the winner in one of six categories from small, medium and large surface and ground water systems in the 2011 Region 4 Consumer Confidence Report Excellence Awards.

Cynthiana won the medium division, serving 3,300 to 10,000 customers.

"We did not apply for this, but I'm certainly very proud of it," said Todd Blanton, plant supervisor.

Blanton said the Cynthiana Water Treatment facility has gone since 2008 without any violations, which is another area of pride.

According to an EPA press release, the awards program promotes the development of effective consumer confidence reports and recognizes the commitment by local administration and plant personnel

ASK<sup>the</sup> DR?

With

Leslie Asbury, MD

Otolaryngologist is a physician who specializes in treating diseases of the ear, nose and throat.

Q: Do I have allergies, do they need to be treated, and if so do I have to have shots?

A: Allergic sinus disease affects a large number of adults and children every year in the US. It accounts for numerous missed days of school and work and can severely impair quality of life for those affected. Poorly controlled allergic sinus disease can lead to the development of other nasal diseases, such as recurrent nasal polyps or acute and chronic sinusitis; ear disorders, such as otitis media, and hearing impairment; conditions caused by mouth breathing resulting from chronic nasal congestion, for example, abnormal facial development in children; sleep apnea and related complications; and the aggravation of, or a predisposal to, asthma.

Common signs and symptoms of allergic sinus disease include: itchy, watery eyes, nasal congestion and sneezing, facial congestion and coughing. These symptoms become most bothersome around allergic triggers, which can occur year round in those allergic to dust, animals, and molds, whereas, Spring is most troublesome for those allergic to trees, Summer for grasses and Fall for weeds.

Traditional allergy treatment has involved injections on a routine basis to help our immune symptom tolerate these allergies. Newer treatments have advanced in the last several years, which enables you to receive safe, mobile immunotherapy in the comfort of your home or on the road without painful injections. Sublingual immunotherapy involves placing allergy drops under the tongue for 30 seconds twice to three times daily. There are no weekly visits to the physician and no needles involved. This type of treatment can be extremely convenient for busy families and especially helpful for treating younger children who fear needles. Symptom benefit with sublingual immunotherapy seems to be noted earlier than injection immunotherapy but a commitment for 3 - 5 years on the immunotherapy is still best to see potential long lasting results.

If you feel that you may have allergies please seek the care of an ear, nose and throat doctor who may be able to help address your problems and provide a treatment plan.

Commission puts Water Works Road repairs on hold

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

The Cynthiana City Commission remains in a quandary over the closed and barricaded Water Works/Abdallah Road.

In a 3-1 vote Tuesday, the commission agreed to a wait-and-see approach regarding repairs that would open the route between Ladish Road and Bridge Street.

The road was closed last summer when a portion of the road collapsed after soil eroded from the underside of the pavement.

Commissioner Roger Slade said the recommendation of Gary Royalty, director of public works/utilities, is to see what impact the new bypass has on traffic coming into Cynthiana before spending money.

However, Mayor Steve Moses said he has been in contact with the state's Transportation Cabinet and there could be a savings to Cynthiana if the city would join the state in purchasing material for the project.

Commissioner Gary Brunker, who said he greatly respects the recommendation of Royalty, made a motion to wait until the bypass is complete before moving forward with any plans for repair.

Moses questioned if it was the commission's wish to tell the state no if they called asking the city to join them and save money.

Slade seconded Brunker's motion. However, he told the mayor that negotiations with the state should remain open. Commissioner Jack Keith agreed.

The mayor was the only opposing vote. Commissioner Billy Grayson was absent.

In other business, the commission:

- Heard a report on the hotel feasibility study from Darlene Bussell, executive director of the Cynthiana-Harrison County Economic Development Authority.

Bussell told commissioners that the investor who requested the study had backed out of the project. She said he initially asked that the city and county pay half of the costs of the study and he would pay the other half. Then, he agreed to pay all of the costs.

Now, she said, he has backed out as a primary investor/developer for a hotel for Cynthiana, and backed out of the study.

Bussell said the study will move forward, however, it will change from being specific to the hotel the investor was looking at to a community overview that will benefit any potential investor or developer.

The cost will also decrease, Bussell said. The original plan would have been about $2,000 for the city's portion. The community overview will be a maximum $1,650.

"I think this is the way we need to go," Bussell said. "We want to press forward."

She noted that the study has already proven that Cynthiana and Harrison County could support a 50 to 60 bed hotel.

- Approved the first reading of an ordinance for a Planning and Zoning map amendment update. The update makes no zoning changes only converts the existing map from a hand-drawn map to a digital version.

Moses suggested that commissioners visit the P&Z office to see the large map.

- Agreed to be co-applicant with P&Z on a Citizens Institute on Rural Design grant for which the city/county match would be $7,000.

- Approved a resolution adopting Title VI implementation for the city with regard to a Community Development Block Grant for public facilities. Title VI applies to the Civil Rights Act and prohibits the city from engaging in any discriminatory action.

- Heard Brunker report on behalf of Grayson that a plaque will be posted in the new Athletic Center at City Hall honoring the late Dave Kennedy, who worked on the renovation project.

- Heard Brunker report that two of the city's fire trucks are in need of repairs. A 1998 truck that has only 37,000 miles and 5,000 hours has three of its six cylinders seized up.

The cost of that repair is $9,000.

A second truck is having clutch problems. However, Chief Jay Sanders said the scope of that repair is unknown because it cannot be taken out of service to be assessed since the 1998 truck is down.

- Heard Slade report that the city still has 18 tons of salt on hand to assist with snow clean-up.

He added that using the salt has created some road problems in the form of potholes that the city public works department are now filling.

- Met in executive session to discuss real estate acquisition.

Brown

agreement that stated that Jim would retain sole ownership of the property.

Kay Brown also faces criminal charges in Lawrence and Johnson counties where she was indicted in November and December 2012.

Brown is alleged to have stolen and obtained several millions of dollars by various means including CD's, monetary gifts, property transfers, and unauthorized purchases using assets of her husband, James Brown, for her personal financial gain.

Kay Brown's brother, Roger Kirk, also faces criminal charges related to the case.

Kay Brown is scheduled for a three-day jury trial on March 26, 27 and 28 in Harrison County on charges of financial exploitation of an adult (more than $300), first degree perjury and second degree criminal possession of a forged instrument.

She entered a not guilty plea and an attorney was appointed for her in Harrison Circuit Court on Tuesday, Dec. 18.

Court ups budget for Parks and Rec., jail

By BEN HYATT, NEWS WRITER

The Harrison County Fiscal Court passed the first reading of an ordinance that will include an additional $83,570 in the budget for the remaining fiscal year.

With March 1 approaching, which marks the date when the Parks and Recreation Committee will assume all recreational responsibilities, the fiscal court is pressed to pass a budget amendment that will include funds needed for operation of recreation.

Of the $83,570 included in the ordinance, $60,570 will be designated to fund parks and recreation for the remaining three months of the fiscal year.

The remaining $23,000 will be earmarked for the jail budget, of which is all new funding by grants.

The court passed the first reading of the ordinance by a vote of 5-2, with magistrates Bradley Marshall and Bradley Copes voting against.

During committee reports, Magistrate Missy Lutz, who also serves on the Parks and Recreation Committee, informed the court that interviews for the director's position has begun with five candidates.

Lutz said a decision may be made as soon as Friday for the position.

Also discussed during committee reports was the road budget.

"We are way under costs due to a mild winter," said road supervisor Jamie McCarty. "The bins are full and it has basically allowed us to work on other projects ahead of time."

Finally, Harrison County Clerk Linda Furnish presented the court with excess fees collected in the sum of $18,863.

Don't fall for do-not-call scam

Scammers have been making phone calls posing as representatives of the National Do Not Call Registry. The calls claim to provide an opportunity to sign up for the registry or ask consumers to verify their information. Of course, the callers are really trying to solicit personal information, which opens victims up to identity fraud.

How the Scam Works:

Someone calls you claiming to represent the National Do Not Call Registry. The registry "official" asks for personal information, such as name, address and Social Security number. The scam has several variations. In one, the caller wants to verify that you are on the National Do Not Call Registry. In another, he/she claims to give you a chance to register your phone number.

Just hang up the phone; This is a scam. Representatives from the registry will not call you. Plus, sharing personal information with the caller will just put you at risk for identity theft.

How to Protect Yourself from Scam Calls:

Don't share your personal information if someone calls you claiming to represent the National Do Not Call Registry.

Do not call the scammers back.

Remember that your participation in the National Do Not Call Registry does not expire. Do not listen to claims otherwise.

If you want to add your number to the Do Not Call Registry, go to Donotcall.gov or call 888-382-1222 from the phone you wish to register.

For more information, contact the BBB at 1-800-388-2222 or go to www.bbb.org.

Celebrating Valentine's Day by the numbers

It's Valentine's Day; what will your sweetie have for you when he or she comes home from work?

As you know, the internet has a plethora of statistics. If you believe any or even part of those numbers, you may be interested to know that for that one special day over $13 billion is spent in the United States.

More women purchase Valentine's Day cards than men, while more men buy flowers than women.

If you believe the statistics, Ernie Barnes is shorted by about $110 on what I give him. The average amount spent on a gift is $116. Just a card is nearly $6.

Me and 180 million others opt for the Valentine's Day card and the "gift" of choice.

I was recently checking out at the store and the woman and young elementary-age child behind me were having a conversation about Valentine's Day cards.

Becky Barnes
Editor

The boy was explaining to his mother that if they bought the Valentine's cards that had the suckers in them, she wouldn't have to buy him any candy, he would just keep the suckers and give the cards to his friends.

Or, the mother said, he could just give his friends the cards that she had purchased the previous week and forget the suckers.

Unfortunately, this sent the child into a whiney tantrum. However, I found it humorous that he was trying to extol the benefits of an secondary Valentine purchase.

The gift most given for Valentine's Day is... no surprise... candy. Sweet confections top the list with 47.5% of sweethearts making that their offering.

Bear in mind that some men and women will give more than one gift.

Dinner out holds the No. 2 spot for "gifts most often given on Valentine's Day.

Close at No. 3 is flowers with 34% of consumers sending or taking home buds and petals from one of the 24,600 florists nationwide.

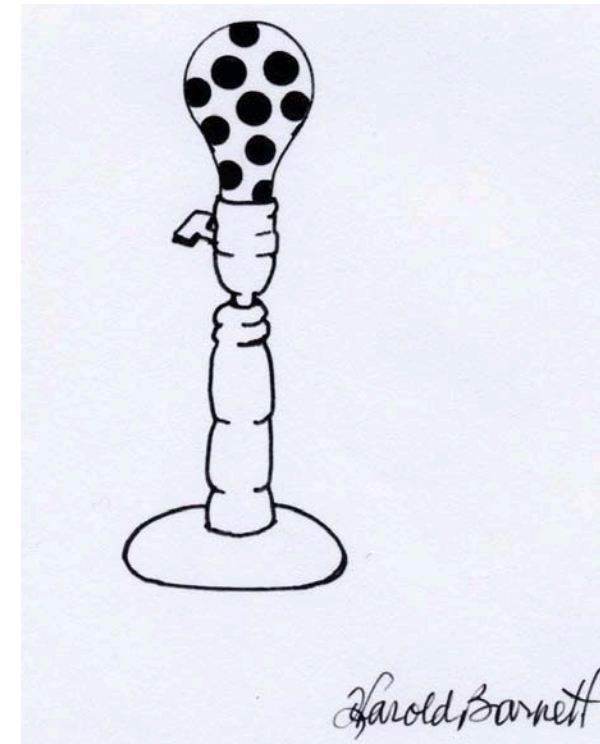

Other gifts topping the list (just in case you need some ideas): jewelry, clothing, electronics, gift cards and travel.

It's likely too late for this year, but consider something besides a gift card next year. How about a trip to the cities of Valentine in Nebraska and Texas, or maybe to Love Valley, N.C.

I'm still contemplating on Ernie's gift. Somehow I suspect I'll be one of millions of American's who will be standing in the card aisle at the drug store trying to decide if I should go for humor or sappy.

Happy Valentine's Day, everyone.

'Today I saw a hero'

To the editor:

As any family member will tell you, all the young men and women who left the Cynthiana Armory Monday, Feb. 11 are true herds. Make no mistake, they are truly the next greatest generation.

But I would like to tell you about one I know personally. I've known this man for 41 years and he is a born leader, the type of person you would want with you in a fight or a foxhole. He has made a career of helping others. Two weeks out of high school he left for the Air Force where he ended up a medic in the First Gulf War in Kuwait. When his five years of duty were up he became a fireman and EMT, he also joined the National Guard and decided to make a career of both.

He became a Paramedic in civilian life and a phatoon leader in the Guard. In 2008 he went back to the Middle East. This time to Afganistan where he sometimes had to use his medical training to help Afgan civilians who were blown apart by suicide bombers.

I've seen this man become a father who's five year old daughter has him wrapped around her little finger, and just melt in her presence.

Monday I saw him head off to the Middle East for the third time. After ordering his soldiers to attention he turned to the crowd of family members, many with tears in their eyes and said "thank you for coming out to see us off, don't worry, they will be alright, we'll take care of them."

This man's name is Sgt. First Class Jerry D. Sipe, my son and my hero.

State agenda is already full

When the General Assembly meets in odd-numbered years, it has a much different schedule than it does in those ending in an even number.

The meeting time is 30 rather than 60 days, and the first four of those are set aside just to elect legislative leaders and appoint members to committees. The bulk of our work doesn't begin until early February, and it effectively ends a little more than a month later.

That tightened time-frame means our schedule fills up quickly, and that was certainly the case last week when my legislative colleagues and I returned to the Capitol on Tuesday.

By the time we had wrapped up our first week of work on Friday, two major priorities were on their way to the state Senate, where they are expected to be received favorably.

On Thursday, the House voted overwhelmingly for legislation that would give many of our public four-year universities the ability to use their own revenue to build a wide array of new or updated facilities. A significant portion of these projects, which top $360 million, will take place at the University of Kentucky, including major upgrades at Commonwealth Stadium. Combined, these projects are expected to generate about 5,000 jobs.

On Friday, the House

Tom McKee
State Rep.

put its near-unanimous support behind House Bill 1, which will increase transparency and accountability among our special taxing districts. They range from public utilities, libraries, airports to volunteer fire departments.

I am co-sponsoring this bill because it is important that the public be able to see how its tax dollars are being spent, no matter where that may be. At the same time, it's important to point out that this bill does not interfere with the day-to-day work these districts do for us. In fact, the bill's main sponsor, House Speaker Greg Stumbo, praised their contributions. I, too, thank the many citizens who have given their time to serve on our special district boards.

According to the auditor's office, which began compiling a comprehensive list last year, there are more than 1,200 special districts across the state, and they oversee more than $2 billion worth of services annually. That's about how much the state provides to our elementary and secondary schools.

This bill also clarifies a lot of often-confusing rules that affect the districts. The auditor's office was able to identify more than 1,000 state statutes that cover this area, with some dating back more than a century. This bill streamlines that, and it ensures that those overseeing the districts fall under the same local ethics laws that other officials in their community have long followed.

When Gov. Steve Beshear addressed the General Assembly on Wednesday as part of his annual State the Commonwealth address, he listed several other bills he hopes can pass this year.

The biggest challenge is finding a way to put our public retirement systems on a more sustainable path without putting an undue burden on those who depend on it or on the taxpayer. This issue cannot wait another year to be acted upon.

He pointed out that the state has had some great successes in recent months. For example, our unemployment rate has declined by a fourth in the last two years, and our auto industry produced more than one million vehicles last year, the most since 2007. Our schools, meanwhile, recently placed 10th among the states in "Education Week," a national publication that takes an annual look at school progress. That's up from 34th just two years ago.

Some of Governor Beshear's priorities include raising the high school dropout age from 16 to 18 and approving a package of bills focusing on our younger citizens. These would toughen the laws on texting while driving, close a loophole in the state's booster seat law and crack down on sexual predators who try to take advantage of children on the internet.

As I mentioned, there are many issues competing for the General Assembly's attention, and the clock is ticking fast. A lot of you have already contacted me about your thoughts or concerns, and I really appreciate that. If you would like to do the same, or if you have a young student who would like to be a legislative page, please let me know. Being a page is a rewarding experience for those wanting to see the General Assembly in action.

My address is Room 332B, Capitol Annex, 702 Capitol Avenue, Frankfort, KY 40601. My email address is Tom.McKee@lrc.ky.gov.

School district faces $215,000 assessment in KSBIT deficit payoff

By BECKY BARNES, EDITOR

While Kentucky's school districts are scrambling to make up a nearly $60 million deficit in the Kentucky School Boards Insurance Trust (KSBIT), Harrison County is sitting marginally better off than most.

Yes, Harrison County is one of over 100 districts who will be forced to help bail out KSBIT. However, while many of the school districts will be scrambling to find other insurance options, Harrison County's administration did that two years ago.

According to Julie Asher, school district finance officer, Harrison County opted out of KSBIT two years ago for workers compensation insurance and three years ago on general liability.

Superintendent Andy Dotson said it became a premium issue for Harrison County to seek other insurance alternatives.

However, leaving the struggling KSBIT did not eliminate the district's liability to them.

According to Dotson, based on a high estimate of $60 million, Harrison County would be responsible to over $215,000, an amount that took administrators by surprise.

The first surprise came in January when the district received a letter stating that Harrison County would be among those responsible for recovering the deficit. The second surprise came last week when the preliminary assessments were issued.

"The assessment is a little bigger than what I anticipated," said Asher.

Dotson said he has questions about Harrison County's assessment.

"My obvious question is how did the numbers come up the way they did?" he said, noting that the figures the administrators received on Feb. 7 are preliminary and not necessarily what will have to be paid.

"Our hopes are that they will come in a whole lot less," Dotson said.

Asher said KSBIT had a formula that took into account the number of years the district was part of the workers' compensation and liability insurance pool, the amount of claims made by the district and the premium.

The Department of Insurance and the KSBIT board each had to approve the formula and that has been done, said Assistant Superintendent Dee Gee Fischer.

KSBIT was started in 1978 as a non-profit self-insured program. The deficit years are 1990 to 2011 for workers compensation and 1993-2011 for general liability.

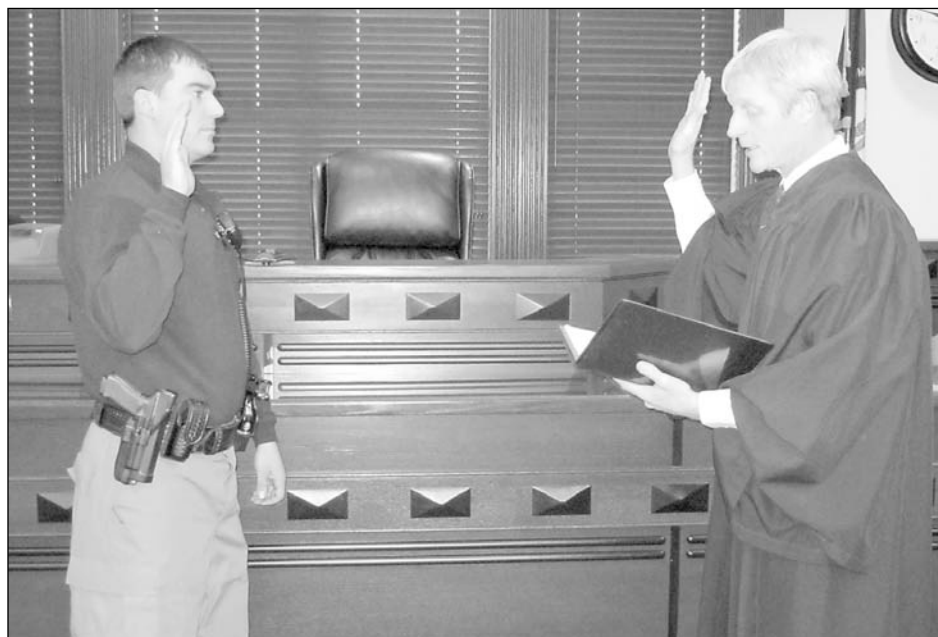

Fischer explained that school districts will have the option of participating in a payment recovery over 10 to 20 years.

The administrators said that while Harrison County's $215,000 is bad enough, they sympathize with neighboring districts such as Paris

Independent, which has been assessed at $263,662; Bourbon County at $431,816; Nicholas at $276,946; and Fleming at $365,559. The smaller districts of Pendleton and Robertson will be responsible for an estimated $138,460 and $86,174, respectively.

"I don't think anyone is going to be real quick to pay this," said Asher.

"We're going to take the wait and see approach at this time," said Dotson, who added that this year's Kentucky School Boards Association meetings are scheduled for Feb. 22-24. "It should be very interesting at KSBA."

Build-a-Bed project makes beds available for children

By BEN HYATT, NEWS WRITER

Applications are now available for families in need of beds for their children.

Through the help of Morehead State University's MSUCorp's Program, Harrison County families are now able to apply for the Build-A-Bed program.

Laying down to sleep at night in an oversized bed is often a luxury that few think of.

While most Harrison County families are snug in their beds at night, there are still many children who are forced to curl up on the floor because they have no bed.

"It's not something we tend to think about," said Harrison

County High School college coach Betsy Montgomery. "But how many kids in our school district go home every night and know there is no bed for them to lay in?"

Harrison County families who are unable to afford beds for their children are now able to apply for a new bed through the Build-A-Bed Project.

"They are simple beds but it means a lot to someone who does not have one," said Harrison County teacher Bryn Free.

According to Free and Montgomery, certain guidelines determine whether a family qualifies for the program.

"We still encourage anyone with a child in our school district to apply for this," said Montgomery. "No one should be without a safe, comfortable place to sleep every night."

Anyone interested in applying for the program should pickup an application at any of the schools or visit the Youth Service Center on Webster Avenue.

The application deadline for this year is March 1.

Water

From WATER, front page toward informing their consumers about their drinking water.

Blanton said the consumer confidence report is a 146-page document that he likened to a report card.

The U.S. EPA requires community water systems to put drinking water quality reports into the hands of their customers annually in the belief that the public has a right to know about local environmental information. While water systems are free to enhance their reports in any useful way, each report must notify customers of sources used, any detected contaminants, compliance with regulations and educational information.

The reports are also useful tools to promote public participation in protecting water sources, said Kentucky's top water official.

"Educated consumers are more likely to help protect drinking water sources and to be more understanding of the need to upgrade the treatment facilities to keep their drinking water safe," said Sandy Gruzsky, director of the Kentucky Division of Water. "I applaud these three water utilities for their achievements and commitment to their customers."

Resources for Home Energy Assistance are dangerously low

Lack of available assistance could make this a difficult winter for the elderly and children living in poverty. Community Action Council is bracing for the federally funded Low-IncomeHomeEnergy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) to run out of funds by mid February, the earliest in more than a decade. Although the Council has several energy assistance programs, the federally funded program is by far the largest to assist families with their energy bills. Much of the funding available to help low-income families has already been spent in the months of November and December. The Council is preparing for a greater need locally as temperatures continue to drop.

The Council's primary LIHEAP Subsidy program assisted residents with low-income with utility costs and offered a one-time benefit to eligible households in November and December. In January, the LIEHAP Crisis program began. As of Jan. 18 the Council has helped more than 2,000 households by spending more than $430,000 in energy assistance since Jan. 7, 2013.

The LIHEAP Crisis program uses the remaining allocated funds (from the LIHEAP Subsidy program) to provide a one-time benefit to households with a disconnection notice. An unstable economy has drawn people in a crisis situation (in danger of losing their heating source) to the Council in greater numbers this year.

"LIHEAP is essential to low-income individuals struggling to keep the heat on this winter and we're concerned that there won't be enough resources to meet the demand for everyone in need this year," said Jack Burch, Executive Director of Community Action Council. "Community support for the program has always been very generous, but the cold temperatures are creating more need."

The need is great in our area and the Council depends on the community at large to help save families with low-income from crisis. The gift of warmth is invaluable during winter months and the community can help heat the home of a family with small children or seniors. The Council also helps with home heating bills through private contributions to the Wintercare Energy Fund on the Kentucky Utilities and Columbia Gas of Kentucky energy bills.

Donations are accepted online at www.commac-tion.org, by check or money order or in person at any of the Council's locations. Please indicate that the donation is for energy assistance and make checks payable to Community Action Council. Donations are tax-deductible.

For more information call 859-244-2221. Mail donations to: Community Action Council, P.O. Box 11610, Lexington, KY 40576.

Tips on tipping

The headline caught my eye — "Why are Christians such bad tip-pers?"

It was a story responding to something that recently went viral on the Internet when a restaurant server was fired after posting a copy of a customer's credit card receipt online.

Apparently, a pastor in St. Louis ate at an Applebee's and when her bill came she scratched out the 18 percent gratuity that is often standard restaurant policy for large groups and wrote a big zero, adding, "I give God 10 percent, why do you get 18?" She signed it "Pastor Alois Bell."

I can't begin to tell you how insanely furious that made me when I first heard about it, for a number of reasons.

My youngest daughter has been a restaurant server for more than a decade, and she says church people are some of the worst custom-

Nancy Kennedy
Columnist

GRACE NOTES

ers. She says many — not all, but even one is too many — are whiny and demanding. They ask rude questions such as, "Why aren't you in church?" if she's working on a Sunday ("Um, so I can wait on you?")

She said when she asked one customer if she'd like a glass of wine with her meal the woman sat upright and said, "Young lady, I'm a Christian and I don't drink wine."

My daughter said she bit her tongue to keep from saying, "Jesus drank wine — are you saying you're better than Jesus?" She said she also wanted to say, "Well, maybe if you did have some wine you wouldn't be so mean."

Also, she said church people like to leave gospel tracts with their stingy tips — sometimes tracts that look like real money. I'd say unless you're leaving a generous tip, don't do that.

What bothered me about the pastor's comment on her bill — where do I even start? How about thinking her tithe of 10 percent absolves her from her duty to give to others? Many restaurant servers earn well below minimum wage and depend on tips to pay their rent and feed their families.

How about her arrogance by calling herself "pastor" but not acting with humility, mercy and kindness?

It turned out that after the Internet backlash the pastor apologized for the "lapse in my character and judgment," as she told "The Smoking Gun." She said she realized her comment on the receipt brought embarrassment to her church and her ministry.

I'd add that it probably made God blush, except God knows that his people are sinful and he's not at all surprised when we act sinfully.

Still, if we want to call ourselves Christians, and if we want others to be attracted to Christ, we have to stop being so arrogant and obnoxious "in Jesus name."

In the "Why are Christians such bad tip-pers?" story, the writer, Karen Prior, made an interesting point, that Christians are among the most sacrificially giving people and there must be something deeper than just stinginess going on when it comes to meager tipping.

Prior suggested it has more to do with bad theology than bad manners.

She said (and I agree) that many Christians divide the world into "secular" or "worldly" and "sacred" or "spiritual," thus elevating what they consider to be spiritual and demonizing what they consider to be secular.

Therefore, giving to "God's work" is considered good because it's "spiritual" and using money on secular activities, such as eating out, is less good. Also in this line of thinking, certain occupations are "higher" (pastors), which makes others lesser (restaurant servers).

I'm not a theologian, but I don't think God uses the same separations as we do. I don't think he considers giving our money to a Christian charity better than leaving a tip for a server who puts up with our bad manners. In fact, he might consider that even better.

The Bible tells those who call themselves Christ followers: "So whether you eat or drink or whatever you do, do it all for the glory of God. Do not cause anyone to stumble, whether Jews, Greeks or the church of God" (1 Corinthians 10:30-32).

Maybe in God's eyes everything we do is spiritual; everything we do, whether it's in church or in a restaurant, reflects his name.

Maybe if we remember that we wouldn't turn so many off to Jesus.

HMH Rehabilitation Services offers new service for golfers

Harrison Memorial Hospital (HMH) announces a new service for golfers that will be offered in the Rehabilitation (Physical Therapy) Services Department and Wellness Center.

Alex Caldwell, HMH Physical Therapist, is now certified in level one of the Titleist Performance Institute (TPI) Golf Fitness Program. He completed the training program in January. The program, co-founded by Dr. Greg Rose and PGA Professional Dave Phillips, was developed to help achieve golf-specific goals by combining Titleist's custom fitting expertise with the physical attributes of the golfer's body and swing technique. The co-founders worked with and studied the best golfers in the world to develop the proper techniques and programs to identify and address golfers' swing inhibiting weaknesses and improve their strengths.

The program includes an evaluation that consists of a 23-point screening to determine the golfer's range of motion, strength, flexibility, stability, posture and balance as they relate to the golf swing. When the evaluation is completed, a program will be developed to set goals for improvement of the golf swing and game. Benefits of the program are to increase core stability and mobility, develop better balance, reduce injury and joint pain and improve endurance.

The cost of the program is $250 for an individual or $400 if two family members join at the same time.

This will include an initial evaluation and a six-week exercise program, followed by a re-assessment. There will not be a wellness center charge during the six-week program.

Caldwell is a licensed physical therapist at HMH, where he serves as co-manager of the HMH Rehabilitation Services Department. A native of Nicholas County, Caldwell graduated from Paris High School in 1999. He earned his Bachelor of Science degree in exercise science from Transylvania University in Lexington, Ky., in 2003. He completed a Master of Science degree in physical therapy at the University of Kentucky in 2006. Caldwell joined the physical therapy staff at Harrison Memorial Hospital in 2006. In 2008, he became a co-manager of the department, in charge of outpatient rehabilitation services and the HMH Wellness Center.

HMH recently completed an expansion and renovation of the Rehabilitation Services Department and Wellness Center. The project began with a 2,450-square foot addition to the department and included extending the ceiling to 11 feet. With the newly improved space, the department has added new equipment.

Handling cattle safely, more efficiently

By GARY CARTER, Co. EXT. AGENT

Proper design and quick recognition of problems that impede cattle flow are essential for safe, efficient cattle handling.

Design and operate alleys and gates to avoid impeding cattle movement. When operating gates and catches, reduce excessive noise, which may cause distress to the animals. Do not use whips, prods, and sticks. Avoid use of electric cattle prods with cattle. Whips are noisy and can frighten animals. Beating with sticks or boards stresses animals, causing injuries and making them more difficult to handle in the future. A good method for driving and sorting cattle is to use a broom or a plastic paddle. Cattle seem to see a wider implement better and follow directions more readily if such an aid is used rather than a stick. Avoid twisting tails too hard or the tail may break.

Work cattle in groups. Cattle have a strong herd instinct and become nervous or aggressive when alone. It is best to work at least two or three animals at a time. It is good to have one or two mature cows in the group if trying to work a group of young calves.

Call cattle rather than drive them. Train cattle to come to your shout or truck horn. This can be done by blowing your truck horn or shouting when feeding or moving cattle. Cattle are more likely to respond to your call in the morning or evening than in the heat of the day.

Use one-way gates to keep cattle from backing in the working chute. Various approaches work, from saloon- type doors to boards manually placed behind the cattle.

Hydraulic or manual restraining chutes should be adjusted to the appropriate size of cattle to be handled.

Regular cleaning and maintenance of working parts is imperative to ensure the system functions properly and is safe for the cattle and handlers.

Avoid slippery surfaces, especially where cattle enter a single-file alley leading to a chute or where they exit the chute. Grooved concrete, metal grating (not sharp), rubber mats, or deep sand can be used to minimize slipping and falling.

Grooved concrete floors and scored rubber padding improve footing and comfort. This is most important for high traffic areas such as parlor holding pens and feedbunk alleys.

Quiet handling is essential to minimize slipping. Under most conditions, no more than two percent of the animals should fall outside the chute. A level of more than two percent indicates a review is needed, asking questions such as:

- Is this a cattle temperament issue?

- Has something in the handling area changed that is affecting cattle behavior?

Some cattle are naturally more prone to vocalize, but if more than five percent of cattle vocalize (after being squeezed but prior to procedures being performed), it may be an indication that chute operation should be evaluated.

If more than 25 percent of cattle jump or run out of the chute, a review of the situation should address questions such as:

- Is this a result from cattle temperament or prior handling?

- Is the chute operating properly?

Provide a sound working knowledge of proper cattle handling techniques to all individuals who handle cattle on the farm. Observe employees to ensure they are properly trained and are using recommended techniques for the tasks at hand. Ongoing education should be part of the farm management plan, including the animal behavior concepts explained in this manual.

Educational programs of Kentucky Cooperative Extension serve all people regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, disability, or national origin.

Harrison County Conservation Breakfast meeting is Feb. 20

The Harrison County Conservation District is hosting the annual Conservation Breakfast meeting on Feb. 20, 2013 at the Cooperative Extension Office. This years program will be, Farming in the 21st Century: a practical approach to improve Soil Health, presented by John Graham, NRCS State Soil Health Specialist.

Soil health is determined by the capacity of a soil to function. How well is your soil functioning to infiltrate water and cycle nutrients to water and feed growing plants? Graham will be presenting information and examples of ways we can successfully farm today, while also improving our soil health.

A meal of sausage, biscuits and gravy, fruit, coffee and juice will be served beginning at 8 a.m. with the program beginning shortly thereafter. ## Loans for socially disadvantaged persons available

USDA Farm Service Agency reserves funds each year to make loans to socially disadvantaged applicants to buy and operate family-size farms. A socially disadvantaged farmer is one of a group whose members have been subjected to racial, ethnic, or gender prejudice because of their identity as members of the group without regard to their individual qualities. For the purposes of this program, socially disadvantaged groups have been defined as women, Blacks or African Americans, American Indians or Alaskan Natives, Hispanics, Asians, and Native Hawaiians or other Pacific Islanders.

Types of Loans

- Operating loans may be used for various short and intermediate type credit needs, such as the purchase of livestock and equipment and annual operating expenses.

St. Valentine revisited

I suspect most of you have no idea about the person and the saintly episode that is commemorated each Feb. 14 by friends, family and most importantly, lovers. In fact, there are several versions of how the most romantic Saint became a commercial success.

One story about St. Valentine has its origins in third century Rome where the Emperor Claudius II outlawed marriage for young single men because he valued them more as young warriors. A priest by the name of Valentine defied the law and continued to secretly marry the young soldiers who were in love. When Emperor Claudius II found out, of course, he ordered Valentine's death. The Catholic Church martyred him for his commitment to love and marriage and now we commemorate him every Feb. 14 by expressing our love for someone else.

With Valentine's Day upon us, millions of flowers have been purchased and are being enjoyed by sweethearts across the country. About 65 percent of those flowers were imported from South America (Columbia and Ecuador) to keep up with the demand; about 30 percent came from California. The No. 1 flower given on Valentine's Day is the rose, of course, and last year nearly 190 million stems were sold on this one day. The majority were red roses, because they symbolize love, respect and courage; then yellow for friendship (some sources say jealousy!); white suggests innocence and secrecy (two things typically not associated with each other); and coral (or orange) for desire...so chose accordingly.

The price of roses this time of the year seems to be inflated but really there are legitimate reasons for the hefty price. Factors that affect the price of roses include the obvious: the demand is so high for the flower on this one day that growers have to work very hard to meet the need. The energy costs for greenhouse growers during the shorter and colder days of winter and the fact that growers and retailers work longer hours and staff additional people doesn't help to keep costs down, either.

To get the most out of your loved one's investment in roses or spring bouquets take some simple steps to keep your flowers fresh. Often a bouquet is not in water when we receive it so the first order of business is to cut the stems and get them into water. For the absolute best results cut stems under water. Fill the sink with a little warm water, submerge the ends, and make a clean cut at an angle. It's also important to remove any leaves that will fall below the water line once in the vase. Foliage will foul the water more quickly.

Water is the key ingredient for keeping flowers fresh longer. Stems that don't get a fresh cut every couple of days get clogged with bacteria that get drawn into the flower stem as it takes up water. Re-cutting the stems allows the flower to continue to take up water. Each time you recut it is also a good idea to refresh the water.

Refreshing the water in the vase every couple of days is sufficient but floral additives can help the flowers last a little longer, too. If you don't have a floral additive you can add one of these concoctions: two tablespoons of grapefruit juice and a teaspoon of sugar; a can of sprite or 7-Up; or a dash of bleach or hydrogen peroxide (mixed in about a liter of water.) If you add anything that has sugar in it you must add fresh water every two-three days because bacteria will grow faster in that environment. Keep your arrangement out of direct sunlight and away from sources of heat; and consider putting it in the refrigerator at night.

You can preserve your roses for sentimental value by drying them. Ideally, remove the roses from the water once they have opened a little more than half way. Bound them together and hung them upside down in a cool dry place. When the flower buds are firm and dry spray them with aerosol hair spray or a product especially labeled for floral preservation.

Harrison County improves to 17-11 with win at Frankfort

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

Four Thorobreds scored in double figures Tuesday night as Harrison County began to right the ship with an 83-66 victory over Frankfort's Panthers in Frankfort.

The Thorobreds started the game a little slow but then went on a 10-to-zero run and never surrendered the lead in the best shooting night that the Breds have had in two weeks.

Coach Larry Kendall started his "new" line up and again it worked well for the Thorobreds.

On Tuesday, the "bench" was also a huge contributor as several points were scored and a better floor game resulted from the regular substitution pattern.

Harrison County maintained the 10-point advantage to lead 23-13 at the first quarter stop.

The Thorobreds hit half of their 18 field goal tries including two of three from behind the arc and three of four from the charity stripe to start out the game smoking on offense.

Turnovers were still an issue as the Breds had nine in the first two quarters and 21 for the game.

The two teams played evenly in the second quarter and went into the halftime break at 36-26.

One other bright spot for Harrison County in the first half was the play off the bench of Trenton Thompson.

Thompson scored eight points in the opening half while playing an active floor game.

Harrison County went on another run to start the second half scoring on a 16-to-four run to make the score 52-30 before Frankfort rallied and cut the lead to 61-44 at the end of the third period.

Senior guard Scott Kendall scored nine of his game high 21 points in this quarter as he connected on three baskets from beyond the arc.

The two teams again played evenly in the last period for the final 83-66 verdict.

Junior Dillon Pulliam scored 10 of his 12 points in this final period.

Totals for the game showed each team with 21 turnovers and Harrison County winning the rebound battle 35-31.

Elijah Gross was the leading rebounder for Harrison County with seven followed by Jordan Martin with six and Pulliam and Thompson with five each.

Senior Trevon Washington came off the Panther bench to lead in rebounds for the game with 10.

Three point shooting and foul shooting were both pluses for Harrison County as the Breds made seven of 18 three tries and 20 of 27 free throws.

Frankfort was a miserable two for 12 from beyond the arc and 10 of 20 from the charity stripe.

The Panthers had three players in double figures with senior Jalen Oliver leading the way with 16 points. Washington and freshman Matthew Smith each chipped in with 13 points.

Harrison County had four players in double figures with Kendall's 21, Thompson's 20, Pulliam's 12 and Gross with 10 points.

Harrison County will close the regular season Friday night as they host the 25-4 Montgomery County Indians on the Hilltop with Senior Night and Homecoming also taking place.

The Breds will then play Monday night in the first round of the 38th District against Pendleton County at 8 p.m..

Thorobreds will face Montgomery County Indians
Friday on the Hilltop for Senior Night and Homecoming.

Mike's Minute

The Wildcats will be better than 25th by year end

This week for the first time since really early in the season, the University of Kentucky Wildcats are rated in the top 25 of college basketball.

In the Associated Press poll, the Wildcats are seven points ahead of Tubby Smith's Minnesota Golden Gophers for the 25th and last spot in the poll.

The USA Today Coaches poll does not have the Wildcats in it but there is probably some bias among the coaches.

I noticed that the coaches also had Indiana second to Duke instead of first like the Associated Press did in its poll.

Coaches are probably afraid of a Coach K fanatic lash back if they don't place the anemic Blue Devils in first.

I do not believe this is the last showing or the highest that the Cats will be this season.

They are making improvements each week as the season goes along and will soon be in the top 20 if the improvements continue.

More consistent guard play is the key for the Wildcats, which will also be a key component to Tuesday's game with the Florida Gators.

Florida is ranked seventh in the AP and sixth in the coaches' poll and a good showing in Gainesville should propel Kentucky lower in the rankings.

Mike Aldridge
Sports Writer

Florida's only loss in the conference this season was to Arkansas in Fayetteville when the Razorbacks made 14 of their first 18 shots en route to an 80-69 win.

The other two losses for the Gators were also on the road at Arizona by one point and at Kansas State by six points.

Of course, traveling to Manhattan, Kansas, alone could make a team weary enough to lose especially when the team is used to being in sunny Florida.

Anyway, tonight's game (writing this on Tuesday) should be an indication of how the Cats have improved to date.

One small note: Brad Marshall asked me the other day if I knew of any fourth generation players who had played for the Thorobreds. Harry Marshall, Brad and Jason were joined this season by Jason's son Caleb on the Harrison County freshman team.

This makes four generations of Marshalls. We wonder if there are in others.

Lady Eagles wear down shorthanded Fillies in Taylor Mill

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The construction was only the beginning of the road blocks that the Harrison County Fillies would endure Monday night as they battled the Scott High Lady Eagles in a game pitting two 10th Region rivals.

The Fillies were working to continue their late-season improvement as they prepare for the opening game of the 38th District Tournament next Monday against Pendleton County.

The assignments facing the 16-10 Lady Eagles became tougher almost immediately as sophomore point guard Cassidy Cook went down with an apparent hamstring injury.

Coach Kim Furnish said after the game that Cook's injury was still being evaluated.

"We think it is a hamstring," said Furnish. "We didn't want to risk further injury by playing her more tonight."

Cook's loss made the Fillies adjust positions moving shooting guard Chelsea Ingram to the point.

"I was proud of how Chelsea handle the pressure," noted Furnish. "She was just beginning to settle into the shooting guard spot though and it was tough when we had to move her to the point."

The Ingram movement wasn't the biggest issue for the Fillies however as Cook's loss also left the already shorthanded Fillies with an even shorter bench.

This caused some serious fatigue issues late in the contest.

Scott High jumped out early as they were dead on from the three-point arc and were also able to drive to the basket for some easy baskets.

The game was close early but Scott High rolled out to a 26-13 lead by the end of the first quarter.

The Fillies battled back in the second period scoring the last five points to go to the dressing room at the half trailing only 36-31.

Junior center Jordan Doram had a big first half with 14 points and 12 rebounds in the first 16 minutes of play.

Ingram and sophomore forward Whitney Gray also added six points in the first half with eighth grader Taylor Reffett scoring five.

The Lady Eagles pulled away in the latter part of the third quarter after Harrison County cut the lead to 42-38.

Some big baskets by junior forward Jill Buntin kept the Fillies at bay during their scoring spurt and the Scott High squad ran off a run of 21 to two to take a 63-40 lead over the fatigued Fillies.

The Fillies did continue to battle but could only get back to the final 68-55 margin.

Eighth grade guard Ally Niece led Scott High with 17

Harrison County Wrestlers ninth in regional, qualify three for state

The KHSAA Region 7 was a close battle for team honors but in the end the usual team won as Woodford County bested Franklin County for the title 223.5 to 207.5.

Harrison County, under the direction of Coach Luke Tucker, finished ninth of the 13 teams that had team scores. The Thorobreds finished one half of a point behind Bryan Station which had 90 points.

The Thorobreds defeated Madison Central, Western Hills, Dunbar and Madison Southern from the schools that had enough wrestlers for a team score.

Three Harrison County wrestlers finished high enough to qualify for this Friday and Saturday's state meet in Lexington. Competitors had to finish fourth or better to move on to the state competition.

Colton Mott, 126 lb., led the Breds with a third place finish as he came back from an opening loss to Angel Vasquez of Lafayette to win four straight matches for his third place finish. Michael Mattox at 106 lbs and Colin Coy at 152 lbs each finished fourth in their weight class to also advance to the state meet.

Each of the grapplers won three of five matches to advance. Nathan Lopez at 113 lb. and 145 lb. Noah Mitchell each finished fifth, only one spot away from the state meet. Lopez finished the season at 17-14 while Mitchell finished at 22-11. Mason Fryman, 170 lb., was sixth with 160 lb. Vince Whitt, 182 lb. Justin Williams and 195 lb. Kellon Williams each finishing eighth to round out the Harrison County scoring.

Bowling Fillies finish fifth in state team competition, individuals do well

The Harrison County Fillies Bowling Team qualified fifth in seeding play on Thursday and then went on to finish fifth overall in the state bowling competition.

The HCHS Wrestling Team had three wrestlers qualify to compete at the KHSAA State Wrestling Championships this week-end, Feb. 15 and 16, at the Kentucky Horse Park. Representing the Wrestling Breds are: Sophomore Colton Mott at the 126 pound weight class, Freshman Colin Coy at the 152 pound weight class and 8th grader Michael Mattox wrestling the 106 pound weight class. finish the season.

The bowlers also had three individuals who competed against the best high school bowlers in Kentucky.

Joseph Bush finished 18th, Gregory Dick finished 26th and Shaylee Carter was 20th among the females.

"The bowlers all did great," said Coach Petey Reynolds. "We were not intimidated at all by the surroundings or the competition and finished the season with great performances."

Cynthiana five win Wachter tourney

A team of bowlers from Cynthiana won the fifth annual Jody Wachter Memorial Tournament held over the weekends of Jan. 26-27 and Feb. 2-3, at Galactic Alley in Cynthiana, beating out 43 other teams.

The team consisted of Johnny Curtis, Dennis

Hyatt, John Scott, Nick Gaunce and Kent Burgin.

Jody Wachter was an avid Cynthiana bowler, earning membership in the Northern Bluegrass Hall of Fame in 2005. He rolled five perfect 300 games and two - 800 series. Wachter was also active in helping the local youth learn the game of bowling, often helping in the local youth league.

He passed away in the peak of his bowling career in 2008 and this tournament began in 2009 in the memory of Jody.

This year's tournament had added excitement. Jody's brother, Mike, had two perfect 300 games along with a game of 277 in the same set for a three game series total of 877, amazingly rolling 34 out of a possible 36 strikes, falling only 10 pins short of the Kentucky state record, set by Anthony O'Neal of Louisville on March 20, 2010. Jimmy Lee Holland of Cynthiana also had a perfect 300 game in the tournament.

Fillies win district battle with Nicholas County, drop tough one to St. Henry

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The Harrison County Fillies continued their late-season improvement as they defeated the Nicholas County Lady Jackets Wednesday evening, 39-28, in the first game of the girl/boy doubleheader on the Hilltop.

On Saturday night the Lady Crusaders of St. Henry handed the Fillies a 56-51 defeat in a physical battle again in the Hilltop gym.

Nicholas County entered the Wednesday game with a spotless record in the district having won four times in 38th district play. They had defeated the Fillies in a double overtime affair on Dec. 7 in Carlisle so Harrison County had a score to settle.

As expected, the game was played very tightly with both teams wanting the victory badly.

Coach Greg Letcher's Lady Jackets and Coach Kim Furnish's Fillies both found scoring difficult early on and the score was only 9-8 in favor of Harrison County at the end of the first period.

Several unforced errors were committed by each team in the opening quarter as each squad seemed to be a little anxious.

Harrison County warmed up from the field late in the first quarter and that carried over to the second period.

The Fillies pulled away to a 16-8 lead after five minutes were played in the second period as Nicholas County could not find the range from the field.

They maintained the eight-point advantage throughout the quarter to lead 20-12 at halftime.

Nicholas County was ice cold from the field in the opening half connecting on only four of 27 tries.

Harrison County connected on a much better percentage making nine of 20 from the field with junior Jordan Doram scoring the same total (12) as the Lady Jackets in the half.

Harrison County's defensive pressure continued to affect the Nicholas County girls in the second half as they never did get on track offensively.

Sophomore guard Megan Bretz drove the ball into the middle but a collapsing defense caused her to miss many of her shots.

Bretz did manage to connect for a team high 12 points for the game as she was the only Nicholas County player in double figures.

Doram had the game high of 18 points and sophomore guard Chelsea Ingram was also in double figures with 12.

"Chelsea seemed to settle into her shooting guard role tonight and played her best game for some time," said Furnish. "She hit three 3-point shots that sparked our scoring when we needed it. I was really proud of how all of the girls played tonight. I thought we controlled the game throughout. We were really glad to get this win."

The win improved the Fillies to 5-18 with the Lady Jackets falling to 16-9.

Saturday's Senior Night game was very physical.

The Lady Crusaders of St. Henry play a disciplined, tough style which led to a very combative ball game.

This style came to have a big role in the game as shooting guard Ingram had to leave the game on two separate occasions with a bloody nose.

The Harrison County substitution pattern was disrupted by her absence causing players to have to be on the floor for longer periods of time.

The game was close throughout as St. Henry led by one point at the end of the first period and by two at halftime, 29-27.

St. Henry pulled away at the start of the third period as they scored the first six points of the second half.

Harrison County battled evenly the remainder of the period to trail by 42-35 going into the fourth and final period.

The Fillies battled back and trailed by four with less than a minute to go and had the ball.

Unfortunately they turned the ball over on three straight possessions and lost by the 56-51 score.

"I was not happy with our late execution with the turnovers, but overall we had a good game," noted Furnish. "This team has played Brossart and Mason County really close and we had a chance to beat them at the end. If we could have shot our free throws better we would have won."

The Fillies were only 13 of 23 from the charity stripe for the game.

The loss left the Fillies at 5-19 with a game Monday at Scott High, Wednesday at home with Augusta, and a final road trip to Bryan Station Friday night still to wrap up the regular season.

St. Henry improved to 11-14 with the win.

There were two big events on Saturday night.

Elizabeth Boyers celebrated her Senior Night as she is the only senior on the Fillies squad.

Boyers has been a valuable contributor to the Fillies this season as she has logged many minutes coming off the bench. Boyers is noted for her defensive ability.

Junior Jordan Doram became only the fourth Fillie to grab 1,000-plus rebounds in her career.

Only Dorothy Boyers, Libby Purcell and Megan Gray had picked off more than 1,000 caroms before Doram joined the exclusive group Saturday night.
